Zusammenfassung:	The “Job Rotation for increasing the blood bank core competence at the Austrian Red Cross Vienna Blood Centre (VBC)” project has the primary objective to enable the European Union Red Cross Blood Services and their staff to learn from each other and to contribute to increase the professional competence in immunohematology, transfusion medicine and blood donor recruitment. Within the Mobility Measure – VETPRO -, the project will facilitate staff members to gain additional experience and to further develop their professional skills according to an individual training plan. This project aims to exchange experience and encourage high level common standards in patients’ blood group serology and in marketing practice of blood donor recruitment for voluntary re-numerated blood donations. The project aims to foster European cooperation between partners and their staff members and to integrate the awareness of the European dimension into their daily work. Furthermore, this will increase the intercultural awareness and improve the language skills of the parties involved. The project duration is 12 months, starting in June 2011. In this period of time 3 staff members of the Austrian Red Cross – Vienna Blood Centre will benefit from the project.
