Information sur le projet

Titre: Unités d'acquis d'apprentissage européens liés à la formation pour l'intégration du soutien et du Logement

Code Projet: UK/13/LLP-LdV/TOI-657

Année: 2013

Type de Projet: Projets de transfert d'innovation

Statut: Accordé

Pays: UK-Royaume-Uni

Accroche marketing: Identifier et renforcer les compétences du personnel des services de logement et de support pour faire face aux changements sociétaux et politiques

Résumé: The project addresses a need for CVET on the integration of support and housing for vulnerable people, including those with disabilities, mental health needs and/or experience of homelessness.

The project has identified six core learning outcomes, following a research exercise into the services, settings and training available in the sector in EU countries. These outcomes have been incorporated into a universal training pack that has been localised, translated and piloted in seven European countries to match their specific context and processes. A consortium of partners, called local coalitions, has been created in these pilot countries, including some providers of housing and support services for vulnerable groups; providers of VET for frontline staff and managers in these services; service users; and research institutions. The project targeted frontline staff, managers and trainers within organisations providing housing and support services for vulnerable people, as well as relevant CVET institutions, in order to transfer the Core European Learning Outcomes to a wide range of audiences. Local coalitions and existing project partner networks have been used to target delegates for the pilots. The training could also be adapted to train a range of related actors such as local, regional and national level policymakers and funders.

After the initial pilot of the localised and translated versions, feedback was incorporated into a revised and finalised version of the training. The training was also structured in 2 versions: a classroom edition whose content is to be delivered over the 2 days training and a modular edition that chops the content of the training into 6 modules that can be used individually or altogether depending on the specific training needs. The training content was thoroughly presented to a wide range of stakeholders during the final event that took place in Brussels on the 15 September 2015.

Description: The project aimed to firmly embed VET in the world of work for housing and support practitioners supporting vulnerable groups in order to respond to new labour market needs generated by the transition to community-based and person-centred care.

The project transfers innovative learning outcomes and training materials on integrated support and housing, which have been developed by Sitra. These are underpinned by and promote the co-production of services which represents a move to more personalised approaches to design and delivery of services. Partners localised and worked with these innovative learning outcomes and tools and created an adaptable European pack that has been tested in seven countries by housing and support providers, working with VET providers and service users.

The project is delivering European Core Learning Outcomes for Integration of Support and Housing (ELOSH) and an accompanying training pack. These are now available on the project's website www.elosh.eu
