Summary:	The language training straight in the occupation school sphere may not be seen detached by the technical needs of the training. Therefore we mean that also in theoretical and practical range the foreign languages into instruction should be integrated. Here bilinguale training or an instruction at rezeption or in the service in a foreign language would be conceivable for example. International co-operation presupposes knowledge of the own and characteristics of the partner given in each case. The needs of versatile an exchange as possible are therefore being obvious and appropriate knowledges of language are indispensably.
