The project counts with the participation of seven organizations from six different EU countries. The Federation of Transport, Communications and Sea workers´ General Union of Castile –Leon (TCM UGT Cy L) is the project promoter. INMETT is based on the training contents developed by “ELF –eLearning Facilitators: analysis of their different roles within different e-learning methodologies and approaches” LdV Pilot project approved in 2005 (n. I/05/B/F/PP-154178).
Résumé:	INMETT (Innovative Training Methodologies for Transport Trainers) was a TOI project approved on the frame of Leonardo Da Vinci call 2009, under the Lifelong Learning Program of the European Commission. The project counted with the participation of seven organizations from six different EU countries. The Federation of Transport, Communications and Sea workers´ General Union of Castile –Leon (TCM UGT Cy L) was the project promoter. INMETT was based on the training contents developed by “ELF –eLearning Facilitators: analysis of their different roles within different e-learning methodologies and approaches” LdV Pilot project approved in 2005 (n. I/05/B/F/PP-154178). INMETT created a Virtual Learning Community in order to train road transport trainers to become e-tutors and increase their competences and habilities in the management and implementation of e-learning courses.
Description:	INMETT project aimed at creating a Virtual Learning Community (here in after, VLC) which provides training on e-learning for transport trainers in order to update and increase their knowledge and competences on innovative training methodologies. In this sense, the consortium developed a fully VLC with specific and tested training contents (11 units in total); resources: like additional documents, videos etc; a specific training unit addressed to users which explains how to use the VLC and navigate and interactive tools, like forums and chacts. INMETT VLC provides to transport trainers the specific knowledge to become e-tutors and therefore, to improve their learning process. With the creation of this VLC, INMETT project contributed to the development of a new learning enviroment which allows a more attractive training with higher interactivity among the trainees or users. In addition, INMETT VLC contributes to the flexibility and easy access to the information and the training that is particularly important within the transport sector, where usually workers find major difficulties to access to training actions given due to the characteristics (strict times, mobility...etc) of their work. The training contents developed in the frame of the present project were based on 3 different documents (Guidelines, Glossary and Dossier of e-tutor necessary skills) elaborated within LdV pilot project: ELF-eLearning Facilitators: analysis of their different roles within different e-learning methodologies and approaches" IT/05/B/F/PP/154178. Thus, the transference of the previous project was sucessfully completed. The products developed within this project can be seen below and can be consulted in this ADAM database.
