Accroche marketing:	The enhancement of entrepreneurship culture among young people is an essential element for improving the quality of future start-ups. It is therefore crucial to disseminate effective tools and project results/good practices developed at the European level, in order to stimulate teachers and trainers to implement educational initiatives targeted at the youngest in this field.
Résumé:	The project aims at encouraging teachers, trainers, and university professors to urge their education institutions to include entrepreneurship in their training/education offer and to implement initiatives to raise awareness on entrepreneurship as a key competence among the youngest. Project activities will start with the drafting of a repository of training initiatives focusing on entrepreneurship selected among projects funded by the Lifelong Learning Programme and other European initiatives. A number of awareness raising initiatives will be then organised in three Italian macro-regions (North, Centre and South) by involving all relevant stakeholders in the education/training system. In addition to this, a specific mailing list will be developed in order to inform all bodies/institutions involved in the promotion of entrepreneurship among the youngest at the regional and national level on specific initiatives funded in the field at the European level. The project is targeted at teachers and trainers active in schools, training centres and universities who are involved in the development, valorisation and dissemination of entrepreneurship as a crucial competence for young generations
Description:	Through the establishment of an effective communication tool (the repository) and through the organisation of awareness raising initiatives to be held in Italy, the project aims at stimulating teachers, trainers and university professors to include entrepreneurship in their educational offer and at helping them in proposing to their stakeholders specific initiatives able to increase the awareness of young people in relation to "starting a new business".
