Project Information

Title: Supermom Kick-off 2010

Project Number: DE/10/LLP-LdV/TOI/147348

Year: 2010

Project Type: Transfer of Innovation

Status: completed

Country: DE-Germany

Marketing Text: The number of single parents is increasing all over Europe. Unemployment among this group is for different reasons much higher than for parents who live together as a couple. As a consequence single parents belong to the population group with the highest risk of poverty, which has unforeseeable effects on the children.
"Supermom Kick-Off 2010" took up successful approaches and ideas from previous initiatives and EU funded projects for lone parents. The aim was to raise the level of competences of the participating single parents in order to increase their chances at the labor market.

Summary: The 20th Century was characterized by fundamental changes in the family structure. As a result the proportion of single parent households increased considerably. Unemployment among lone parents is, for various reasons, significantly higher than for parents who live together as a couple. In Europe, as almost everywhere in the world, single parents belong to the population group with the highest risk of poverty and hence they are strongly threatened by social exclusion. Therefore, customized solutions are needed.

In order to really understand the issues facing lone parents and to find solutions, it is important to consider both the increasing and alarming figures regarding unemployment and poverty among single parents and also the specific living situations of individual lone parent families.

The completed Supermom project offered a practical approach in which the abstract group “single parents” became personalized, which led to a better understanding of the difficulties they have to deal with.

The results have been:
- Increased competences of the participants: Professional as well as personal and social skills
- Increased self-esteem, both through self-reflection in the workshops and by gaining a new perspective on their own lives through the camera
- Improved chances in the labor market
- Stimulation of a constructive debate concerning the topic “Single parents in Europe” with the help of the film as one of the final products.

Description: The Supermom project resulted from three successful previous projects:
- Empower 1-project: A workshop to support the labor market integration for single parents was developed and successfully tested.
- Empower 2 – project: This project also provided interesting approaches that influenced “Supermom”
- Supermutti Kick Off 2007: The German project partner Helden wider Willen created a film with single parents before and behind the camera. Within the framework of practical workshops the participants could improve their job skills in the field of filmmaking and media.

"Supermom Kick-Off 2010" as follow-up project combined the approaches and offered vocational orientation and training in media for unemployed single parents. Vocational training courses were organized together with practical work and informal learning. This combination empowered the participants, raised their professional as well as personal competences and thus increased their chances at the labor market.
The project started with a research and analysis period where all project partners contributed with information about the situation of single parents in their country as well as about job chances in the media sector. The comparative report can be downloaded in all partner languages from the website as well as in the "files" folder of ADAM.

The common report served as a basis for the adaptation of the course. A course handbook in form of a manual was compiled serving as basis for the workshops that started in all partner countries in September and October 2011. The course handbook is as well available to be downloaded from the website as well as from ADAM.

The next steps have been:
- Further implementation of the workshops together with practical work on the "Supermom Kick-off 2010" film
- Tutoring and monitoring of the participants, documentation of their progress through a video diary
- Film Premiere in Paris as final event of the project

During the project period a total of 50 single-parent families from 5 European countries participated in a systematic training in the film industry. The common movie as one of the main products stimulated a debate on the difficulties of unemployed single parents in re-entering the labor market. The awareness of labor market policy and family policy actors and employers towards the special situation of single parents will be further sharpened when watching the short films. Besides the awareness rising, the project contributed to the development of customized counseling and educational programs from a European perspective which is transferable to many professional fields.
