aims to prepare and train those persons who are involved in recognizing, promoting, counselling and guiding unemployed persons, senior workers and young people who are interested in becoming more entrepreneurial, by developing a profile and training of the 'Entrepreneurial Coach' and an Entrepreneurial Passport.

This project has been funded with support from the European Commission. This communication reflects the views only of the author and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use which may be made of the information contained therein.

The Project

Themes of social inclusion and entrepreneurship are currently leading the social agenda. Not entirely coincidentally, because those themes seem to be an answer to questions involving a globalising world. The Leonardo da Vinci funded project "Coach for Entrepreneurial Opportunities" (C-EO) matches and streamlines the themes social inclusion and entrepreneurship in order to meet existing demands of human capital.

Entrepreneurship the answer to social inclusion?

If Europe succeeding in anchoring entrepreneurship and intrapreneurship in the human DNA it then creates the ideal Europe; a continent that is economically flourishing and is far ahead of its time in education. Anticipating that future we already should be thinking about the 'logistics' of this transformation. There is a large group of people in our society that has difficulty accessing the labour market and for whom this transformation means social inclusion.

European context

Given the European relevance of the theme the project works with an international partnership. Partners from the Netherlands, Portugal, Italy, France and England will look at common ideas so that the products can be widely accepted and fit the Europe of the future.

The partnership of C-EO thinks that entrepreneurship and intrapreneurship is essential also for the so-called at risk groups. Although it is no less essential as for anyone else, the C-EO partnership acknowledges that for this group of people another approach is required in order to reinforce entrepreneurial and intrapreneurial skills. The C-EO partnership is searching for tools and instruments that can help to create opportunities for that particular target group who are distant from the labour market and to recruit a regular position on the labour market. The work supervisor or the work coach is one of the most important tools used in this policy.

The objectives of C-EO are:

- Development of a ECVET and EQF proof profile of the intrapreneurial and entrepreneurial Coach.
- Development of a training program with the focus on the Knowledge and skills of the profile.
- Testing of the training program.
- Development of a certification method that fits all partner countries and allows all learning pathways.
