How does the Matrix represent the work processes typical for the professional field of cooks?
Perfectly
Quite good	x
Only partially
Not at all

Please could you give us a comment concerning the previous answer, if you think that the Matrix does not represent typical work processes of the respective field?
- The matrix includes processes from various educational systems that offer knowledge on different levels in chronological order. Concerning this is possible that some skills and competencies in our country are obtained in different order than in other systems.
- Individual professional skills in specific area of our educational system (diet chef, bartender, wine consultant), can be gained through NVQ's with pre-requisite basic skills of the participants. Mentioned skills, knowledge and competencies are not included within educational program - cook.

Do you think that the Matrix could be useful to map and define available skills and competences of future employees and/or students coming from abroad?
Perfectly fitting to the scope
Quite useful, with some limits	x
Partially useful
Not at all

Comments:
- Competencies covered in matrix are in some steps (e.g. 1. Competence Area, 2nd step; 1.3) more suitable and easier obtained for participants who working in SMEs than in large organizations. In SMEs the participants more quickly get know the vertical processes, but more narrowly (the whole process is shorter and faster), while in large organization tha participatns meet the processes more slowly and broader. Usefulness of the matrix thus depends, where the students will perform mobility.

Thank you for your collaboration!
