

This Project is funded from the financial support of the European Commission. This publication is the sole responsibility of its author. The Commission is not responsible for the use made with the information contained herein.

IN THIS ISSUE: FINAL SEMINAR IN ALTEA

5TH FINAL SEMINAR IN ALTEA

International Seminar in Altea had as main aims:

1º Providing the experiences of each partner to prepare the final report: impact.

2º Sharing experiences of dissemination of each partner and analysing the impact of the Project.

3º Checking final results

4º Undertaking commitments on the dissemination and sustainability of results.

During the seminar we tried to analyse the goals we have achieved with the project. Responding to the question How the project has contributed to develop a culture of prevention and how we can measure it? Some valuable contributions were made:

1) It has been an occasion for visualising the problem of violence in every one of our institutions and in the networks of national partners with which each partner works.

2) In the training sessions we have learned how to listen the educators and their concerns.

3). Partners have learned from each other.

Therefore, the final product is very rich in contents and is a valuable contribution for the further training of professionals. Training cards can be used in different contexts and can be used independently to achieve efficient results. For almost all the partners had meant an added value to their daily work.

Another key issue discussed in the seminar was the dissemination strategies to be followed to develop the local seminars for dissemination.

In the previous meeting in Estonia we had agreed that during the holding of this final seminar one of the days would be devoted to attend to the TRAPREVI dissemination seminar prepared by Altea España in the University of Alicante. But for reasons of space availability it had to be delayed to 15th September

We also analysed the website of the project www.traprevi.com, its positive points and its failures. It was decided redesign the site to give more visibility to the training modules and othes results, keeping other sections that have been useful for the work during the two years of the project but which were more irrelevant for the future.

Thus why from this seminar on we present a new design of the website focused on the results of the project.

Finally, we closed the seminar and said goodbye to the partners with the good taste of a well-done work and a Project, OUR PROJECT, as we called it from the beginning, full of work but also full of good know-how and professional and personal satisfaction.

CONCLUSION: On September 2015 took place the last international meeting. The project ends here but we want to lay the foundations to make sure that our TRAPREVI will continue offering tools to the professionals working with young people.

