

Blended Learning Seminar

International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS)

The Blended Learning Seminar on International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) provides participants with the latest information on accounting procedures under IFRS. It also deals with the impact resulting from the internationalisation of national accounting procedures by the German Accounts Modernisation Act (BilMoG). The aim of the seminar is to enable participants to assess the impact of a conversion to IFRS or change to national accounting procedures as a result of the BilMoG, and to evaluate the problem areas resulting from this; to identify solutions; and to put these successfully into practice in a way which is right for annual financial statements.

Topics

- Legal framework
- Motives and consequences of a conversion to IFRS
- Main accounting principles
- Fixed assets
- Depreciation of assets
- Intangible assets
- Real property held as a financial investment
- Leasing
- Inventories and production orders
- Deferred taxes
- Payments and benefits to employees
- Financing instruments and equity
- Reserves and potential debts
- Selling assets held long-term and areas of business which have been given up
- Further fundamental standards

Blended learning – design and method

Blended learning combines the advantages of live sessions and e-learning, thus providing a combination of different learning methods and media.

The Seminar on International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) consists of six blocks, directly linked with each other, and ends with a final test:

- Total time per seminar 8 – 10 weeks
- Introductory orientation stage (2 weeks)
- 3 live-session stages of 1 – 2 days each
- 2 online stages between the live-session stages of about 4 weeks each
- Individual coaching afterwards

Online (2 weeks)	Live (2 days)	Online (4 weeks)	Live (2 days)	Online (4 weeks)	Live (1 day)
---------------------	------------------	---------------------	------------------	---------------------	-----------------

The live-session stages are designed to provide tuition on the various topics, to deepen the knowledge gained in the online stages, to prepare tasks and to present results. Tuition in the online stages is provided via web-based training (WBT), which is supported by case studies and tasks. Participants' progress is also measured by self-tests and a final test.

Support-based learning: participants will receive comprehensive support by trained e-tutors over the whole time of the course and up to four weeks afterwards.

Target groups

- Executive managers and staff in the following areas:
 - Accounting and finance
 - Tax and financial statements
 - Controlling, reporting, internal auditing
- Auditors, tax accountants and their staff

Benefits

- Flexible learning – alternating live and online stages
- Practical teaching and repetition of theory
- Individual monitoring of students' progress through online (self-)tests
- Practical examples and case studies involving the topics treated
- Flexible discussion and exchange of opinions during the seminar through innovative, online-supported learning methods
- Expert teachers from auditing and corporate consultancy with many years of experience in international accounting
- Assistance and coaching even after the course is over

• Certification

On passing the final test, successful participants will be awarded a certificate by the Akademie für Welthandel AG.
