

GROUP 1

JOB TITLES	SHORT DEFINITION
Supply Chain Manager / Director	Is in charge of the business strategy, the allocation of resources (financial (budget), material and human) the integration and management of their area of logistics specialism (including quality performance management). Is also responsible for the customer service strategy, the reverse logistics strategy and the implementation of changes.
Logistics Manager	Implements corporate logistics policy taking into account all reverse logistics aspects (e.g. he may design the return strategy for packaging (returnable or damaged) according to legislation in force, and is in charge of customer service strategy. Collaborates with customers and suppliers on logistics matters. They need to be aware of the cost effects and staffing implications of logistics plans and decisions. They also take action in response to performance measurement results.
Logistics Analyst	Performs logistics and marketing analysis (market and competitors analysis) to promote/increase brand identity by identifying and gathering and spreading information on the operation, its planning and pricing, and providing advice and consultation to others/relevant target groups. Monitors key performance indicators and prepares reports about the results and communicate with the supply chain & logistics manager. may also be asked to undertake special research studies such as geo-marketing research.
Logistics Engineer	Responsible for using information technology (IT) for logistics planning and simulation exercises to resolve problems in the logistics area. From this he/she develops and plans logistics activities.

GROUP 1

Logistics Controller	The logistics controller analyses costs and monitors performance. They identify problems, analyses them and proposes possible solutions. They also support relevant logistics projects.
Logistics IT-Specialist	The logistics IT specialist implements software solutions along the supply chain, integrating ICT systems inbound within the company and outbound with providers, suppliers and customers, and cross-functional integration of database.
Logistics Supervisor	The logistics supervisor coordinates the daily operations. However, in general terms they ensure the optimal receipt, storage and issue of goods, and to ensure that the organisational standards are met. Depending on the size of the organisation, the supervisor may have a number of smaller teams reporting to them