First pilot experimentation of the GEPAP method in Portugal

Launching the start of the evaluation of the transferability of the tool GEPAP to other European countries, the first pilot experimentation was led by the Portuguese partner from March 13th to 16th, in Setubal - Portugal.

A pilot experimentation led on a different target group

Trained to the GEPAP method in France last month, the Portuguese partners have organized the 1st pilot experimentation in their centre, Portugal. Key stage of the GEPAP project, this experimentation is necessary to test the transferability of a French tool into other European countries, with a different legislative and cultural context but also with a different category of user of social or socio-sanitary services. Meanwhile the tool GEPAP was experimented in France with a user presenting a mental disease, this time, the user was a minor placed by the justice in the partner's institution Questao de Equilibrio, which meant different personal objectives to reach and different conditions of implementation of the possible actions.

Organized in two working groups, our PAP coordinators (those trained to the method previously) met the different professionals of the centre in charge of the accompaniment of this young boy and worked with them to elaborate a PAP that would help him reaching the goals he has fixed.

Some news from France...

This meeting was also the opportunity for the partners to get the feedback of the PAP implemented during the training in France. Present at the meeting, the PAP coordinator confirms that the first actions planned in the PAP for the user revealed to be positive though few time has passed, the biggest difficulty coming from the availability of the professionals involved in the plan and the most encouraging fact being the enthusiasm and involvement of the user himself.

Few words about the partner... Questao de Equilibrio

Based in Setubal, the association initially started its activities in the streets by trying to integrate socially people with addictions problems (and more precisely drugs). Nowadays, the association has changed its target group and is now providing social services such as lodging and educational actions to integrate them into the community to youngsters facing social problems and placed by the justice in the institution. Innovative in its method of accompaniment of these youngsters Questao de Equilibrio has also developed its own methods based on the use of sports and activities with controlled risks.
