ENELFA - ENTrepreneurship by E-Learning For Adults

Accreditation of the ENELFA project courses

In the next period inside both institutions implied in ENELFA project will be going a process of accreditation of the courses. The partners will try to have the recognition of the authorities in order to get the courses suitable for commercialization as introductory courses. BBU seeks to introduce part of the modules in the curriculum from the masters, the distance learning form, in order to stimulate de young entrepreneurs.

For the accreditation of the courses, Managers and Craftsmen Association in partnership with Babes-Bolyai University will prepare a file which will be deposited at the National Council for Adult Training. This is the organism which accredits e-learning courses. For the accreditation of the online course the two Romanian partners need to take into consideration the conditions regarding the technological infrastructure and information and communication tools. The necessary documentation refers to the following aspects: technological characteristics of the system; functionality (for flow, interaction and monitoring); the competences of the implied actors, teaching materials provided by the system, reports generated automatically by the system for monitoring and evaluation, learning and verification certificates; questionnaire on the effectiveness of the training program and success.

In the evaluation process of the courses, there are two steps to be taken:

- I). self evaluation of the course supplier (APM in partnership with BBU);
- II). evaluation of the National Council for Adult Training.

In order to authorize the courses, in the next period APM and BBU, will have to go through the following steps:

- a) to prove that the teachers that have done the modules are specialists in the field and they do not need other certification;
- b) to verify the prepared curriculum;
- c) to provide evaluation questionnaires used also in the project;
- d) to draft the evaluation report;
